

"life is just an artefact" don't close the stage, the playing isn't over yet there will be more to say and more to act because life is just an artefact in any time we even met with any clothes we even wear the shabby ones or for kings made for everyone the light will fade who think the most or just don't care so fade away you human bones is darkness yet awaiting you or may enlightenment still come true what do you care about heavens thrones?

