

" # my second society hack # "

people offer to pick up used stuff which people can strip, clean and sort and grind or melt to usable pieces in exchange for a free environmental quality logo finally people exchange those usable pieces for enough drinkable water, edible food and seeds medical supplies, inhabital housing materials, wearable clothing, usable transportation, proper means to power generation and means of communication similar to a network like internet such that people can reach and provide more people in that way people can live from recreating stuff in exchange for (basic) live needs (without any authority that needs to come to pass) do this in small groups scattered around the globe and create harmony
